The Presiding Officer ruled that prior to the time a committee is convened, the question of whether proper notice for a future meeting was provided, is not an issue for the Presiding Officer to decide on the House Floor and that the question of proper notice must be raised with the Chair of the committee in the committee meeting at the time an attempt is made to hear a bill that the member believes to be in violation of the rule. The Presiding Officer concluded by stating that the Chair will not rule prospectively on a possible future violation of the Joint Rules.
